Dear Mr Dickens,

In his latest letter, Frank tells me that he has not yet received my last letter, though this was sent nearly two weeks ago on September 14th. He also says that he has been told that you are waiting for a response from me to your letter of September 5th, though I sent you that response at the same time. (Just in case you genuinely failed to receive that response, I enclose a copy.)

Could you explain, please, your justification for holding up my mail to Frank? As far as I can see there was nothing in my letter to warrant this treatment at all.

Could you also let me know where we stand regarding Frank's prison autobiography "An Abuse of Justice" in light of the clarifications I provided to you in my reply to your letter?

In the meantime, please note that, in response to your concerns about the mention in Frank's blog of his personal officer's first name, this name has now been edited out of that entry.

Yours sincerely,

Andrew Hinchliffe
